As the above explains what happened, but in my view we can be more on our toes in the future by preparing a brief letter of acknowledgment for your review a few days after receipt.

(*) We have retyped DDA's proposed reply at Tab F since DDA's letter cannot be located in your immediate office.

Mr. E. Henry Knoche

Dear Mr. Knoche:

My purpose in writing is to inform you that Harvard University's Program for Senior Managers in Government will be held from July 31 to August 19, 1977. Jointly sponsored by the Harvard Business School and the John F. Kennedy School of Government, this new program is designed for experienced executives who hold positions of major responsibility in the public sector and seeks to further the development of effective managerial attitudes and abilities.

The three week program emphasizes the development of a framework for systematically studying and resolving the key policy and management issues that face executives in federal, state and local government. We have developed a substantial body of new case material and feel that the curriculum will make a major contribution to the participants. Our long experience with executive education also tells us, however, that the caliber of the executive in the group is equally critical to the success of a program.

As a part of the process of recruiting outstanding participants, we are writing to friends of Harvard and selected individuals with important roles in the public sector. Accordingly, I am writing to you to ask for your interest and support and am enclosing a brochure which describes the program more fully.

We are seeking applications from key individuals in the federal executive branch (the cabinet, agencies, the White House), from staff directors of major congressional committees, from senior managers of state and local government departments and agencies, and from a small number of business executives whose areas of responsibility relate to government. One of our top priorities is attracting the candidacies of women and minorities holding such senior positions. The experience of working together in a tough, well-designed program should be memorable.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Joseph L. Bower
